

Hi!

Welcome to your course on Administering Standardised Tests. This course is the first training module which leads to the British psychological Society qualification, the Certificate of Competence in Educational Testing: Test User in Education.

My name is Rebecca Good and I am one of the course authors and tutors on the course. On behalf of myself and the team here at Education Elephant I want to send you a very warm welcome to this course. We are delighted that you are here and trust that you will have a truly enjoyable online learning experience with us. I would encourage you to write a short hello message in the discussion forum within the 'personal introductions' discussion section -just to let us know that you got our message and to briefly introduce yourself and what you hope to get from the course.

Feel free to start exploring the online learning environment - all of the details of this course can be found on this platform including:

- a) Course syllabus (PDF syllabus printable/downloadable)
- b) How to get started with your online learning
- c) Video Lessons
- d) Contact information for tutor or technical help

This is a self-paced course but there is plenty of flexibility around the time required to complete the lectures and short assignments. The flow of this course uses a mix of asynchronous (not live/own time) and synchronous (live/real time) learning activities and methods. The live sessions will include tutorials and Q&A sessions. These will be scheduled at different points throughout the course. Attendance at the live tutorials is not mandatory but you may like to pop in so that you can extend your learning and ask questions. However, if you can't make it you can always watch a recording of the session. Details on how to do this are in the section 'live and recorded tutorials'

This course is fully online and all of the information and details on how to move through the lessons is provided for you in the section 'how to get started with your online learning'.

Wishing you every success!

Rebecca & the Education Elephant team
